

Norfolk property search consultancy expands with appointment to support the Norwich area

Issued: 15th March 2017

Jamieson Property Search, Norfolk's leading independent property search consultancy, has appointed Samantha Dunn to assist clients in Norwich and the surrounding areas.

Jamieson Property Search is owned and run by Jamie Jamieson and has been securing properties on behalf of its clients since 2010. The consultancy acquires private residences, second homes and properties for rental or investment throughout Norfolk.

Said Jamie Jamieson:

“My business is based on trust, discretion and, often, anonymity. I have been looking for the right individual to help me progress the business for some time; I believe Samantha embodies the ethos of Jamieson Property Search and greatly look forward to working with her.”

Samantha relocated to Norfolk with her family from Lincolnshire three years ago. A former Circulation Director for the Nottingham Evening Post, she has set up and run her own Cookery School and worked as a freelance Marketing and PR consultant. Having most recently taken a year out to renovate her old farmhouse, Samantha is perfectly positioned to join Jamieson Property Search.

Samantha Dunn:

“Finding the perfect family house in Norfolk was a real challenge. Norfolk is a different marketplace and a successful house search requires patience, consistent communication with agents and significant research. We are still in the throes of our renovation project and the challenges presented by suppliers can be overwhelming. I share Jamie's passion for property and look forward to working with him and his clients.”
